This evening, I passed along to our senior executive team clean versions of the revised executive summary and introduction. (See email below.) To this email, I have attached the track changes version so those that provided comments can see what I did with those comments.

The goal is to have drafts of the ES and Chapter 1 ready to share with others, as soon as possible, and hopefully sometime tomorrow mid-day. I don't know what additional comments we might receive from the senior executive team. It would be helpful if folks could take another look at the revised sections. Should the senior executive team ask for changes, I can add your changes at the same time. In any case, your input will be considered for the draft that we hope to release around April 15.

Thanks folks. We're in the home stretch and what we have is good.

Bob et al.:

Attached are revised versions of the draft Bristol Bay Executive Summary and Chapter 1. The team hopes we captured all the comments and suggestions provided during the past few days. Obviously, there were some comments that were not quite in agreement and we have tried to reach a good compromise. Please let us know if we have met the challenge and have found acceptable middle ground.

My understanding is that we want to review and come to closure on the Executive Summary and Chapter 1 as soon as possible so that they may be shared with others outside of our immediate team, including folks outside the agency. I think the plan was to try to share the ES and Chapter 1 by the end of this week. Let me know if the attached versions are acceptable. If not, send along your suggestions for further edits and we'll do our best to turn around a revised version as soon as possible.
